

It is in fact like this:

And then it is like this:

Therefore, it is perpetually like this:

For the purpose of this revelation and teaching, the 'X' represents the 1st of January. However, it matters not where the 'X' begins for you, that is, what date you choose, whatever the starting point, one year later, it is the same point you cross and not one you leave behind.

We live by deliberate design – a ceaseless motion whereby you will rotate enough times around the same mark and pathway so that you will experience all of your choices until such time you learn the energetic impact of those choices, that is, that all you do will have a cause and effect on all that is you and all that lives with you.
